Category:Autodesk de:AutoCADQ: Add custom attribute to every row in a laravel collection I am trying to add a custom attribute to every row in a database record in my Laravel application. This is my code so far: foreach ($records as $record) { foreach ($record as $field => $value) { $record['new-attribute'] = $value; } } When I print $records in the view, this is the output: [{ 'id': 1, 'driver_id': 2, 'driver_name': 'James', 'passport_id': 5, 'passport_number':'something', 'new-attribute': 'This is the value I want to be a custom attribute' }] When I print $records in the view, this is the output: [{ 'id': 1, 'driver_id': 2, 'driver_name': 'James', 'passport_id': 5, 'passport_number':'something', 'new-attribute': 'This is the value I want to be a custom attribute' }] The output that I get isn't even correct. How do I get the above to output as the last case? A: You should be creating a new variable using array_merge function. Also, I think you're overwriting the entire $record every time
